Fireworks and Fun

Although summers are scorching in the Inland Empire, it's a great time to find fun events. Not least of all, of course, are the Fourth of July extravaganzas. To help you find your fireworks, check out our guide on page 5. We feature Reno the Mountain Lion on our cover this month. For a fun family outing, visit him for his 20th birthday party at the Living Desert. See more on page 4. We feature a number of articles this month on getting out and about, including the Huck Finn Jubilee (page 10) for Bluegrass fans, Run Whatcha Brung (page 11) for classic car buffs, and the newly expanded Beach Train (now called the Summerlink, see page 8) to help you make a run for the beach.

Have a safe and happy June!

Oldest Living Mountain Lion in Captivity to Celebrate 20th Birthday at The Living Desert

This month, you have the opportunity to party with a real animal. On June 10, Reno, the oldest living mountain lion in captivity and one of the most beloved animals at the Living Desert Zoo and Gardens, will celebrate his 20th birthday with a grand party.

The Living Desert in Palm Desert is a 1,200 acre private, non-profit zoological park and botanical garden.

The day's activities include special birthday presents for Reno filled with his favorite treats, birthday cake for visitors, chats with his keepers, face painting and a kid's activity corner. The party begins at 10am in Eagle Canyon and the event is free with zoo admission.

The 20-year-old cougar, born in 1985, arrived at The Living Desert on June 8, 1993 from the California Department of Fish and Game. He was raised in Colorado by humans but when he moved to California, Reno was transferred to the care of Fish and Game. The Living Desert acquired him as part of their Eagle Canyon exhibit.

In September of 1993, Sedona, the zoo's female mountain lion, was introduced to Reno. Normally cougars live a solitary life except during breeding season. Reno and Sedona were separated in 1994 but reintroduced in 2000. They have been together during ever since but separated at night, each with a turn in evening exhibits.

Mountain lions, cougars, pumas or catamount, another common name, occupy less than one-quarter of its once expansive range stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from British Columbia to the tip of South America. They are now extinct in the eastern United States except for a few in Florida. Mountain lions can live up to 18 years. Reno's popularity is due in part to his people-friendly attitude. Zoo officials say he loves to lounge in front of the large glass windows, having his picture taken and watching visitors with his big beautiful eyes. ■

Getting to the beach in style

After 10 Years the Beach Train is now SummerLink with Expanded Service

It's been 10 years since the first Inland Empire families loaded sand buckets, shovels, boogie boards, and beach towels on the Beach Train and arrived relaxed and happy in San Clemente after cruising past traffic to their summer getaway.

In recognition of the Beach Train's popularity, the service—operated until now by the Riverside County Transportation Commission—has officially become part of Metrolink and will debut in July as SummerLink.

"The change means the service is a fixture of Metrolink now," RCTC rail program manager Stephanie Wiggins said. "This means more options for everyone who travels between Orange County and the Inland Empire whether it's for a fun day at the beach, to get to work, or to visit family and friends."

Joining the regular Metrolink family will mean that Beach Train regulars will enjoy a number of conveniences that used to be available only to regular Metrolink passengers. Tickets will now be sold the day of travel at the ticket machines on the platforms, instead of through advance purchase ticket outlets. "This just adds so much more flexibility for everyone," Wiggins said. "Riders no longer need to make advance reservations and mail a check to reserve their tickets. Instead all they need to do is show up at the station and use our ticket vending machines on the day they ride."

Other changes relate to the fares and schedules—schedules will be posted on both the RCTC and Metrolink websites—as will fares. "It's become more like regular Metrolink service with station to station fares," Wiggins said.

Fares will run from $11 for the shortest distances to $16.75 round trip for the longest distances. Regular discounts of 25 percent off Metrolink offers for seniors and persons with disabilities will also be available for the first time. There will be more trains, too with three round trips each day. For the first time, the schedule will also allow for reverse trips so that people can travel from Orange County to the Inland Empire in the morning and return in the evening.

In addition to having more trains each day, the SummerLink Trains will be offered on many more days. Service will operate every Saturday and Sunday from July 16 to October 9, except Labor Day Weekend September 3-4.

For more information, go online to www.rctc.org and click the Beach Train/SummerLink button or go to www.metrolinktrains.com. You can also call 951-222-7000 x2325 or 1-800-371-LINK.

Also, take advantage of the special giveaways and contests offered by the Pavilion when you visit. Plan your trip during one of giveaways and be eligible to win great prizes including horse racing souvenirs, admission tickets, betting vouchers, vacation cruises and more!

Hanging With Huck

Merle Haggard headlines 'Huck Finn Jubilee'

Following the release of "Unforgettable Merle Haggard" by Capitol Records, the legendary Haggard is set to perform Sunday, June 19 at the Huck Finn Jubilee.

The concert highlights three days of summer fun on the banks of the Mojave River in Victorville, a place Huck Finn would feel right at home. The Jubilee opens at 7am Friday, June 17 in Mojave Narrows Regional Park.

"The 6pm Sunday concert follows a series of dates with Bob Dylan during the month of April. In May, Haggard appeared at the Academy of Country Music Awards, and then celebrates Father's Day in June at the Jubilee," Don Tucker, Jubilee spokesman, said. "Father's Day appearances by legendary performers like Roger Miller, Earl Scruggs, and now Merle Haggard continue the Jubilee's 29 year tradition of sharing great artists with its fans."

At the Huck Finn Jubilee, Haggard headlines a lineup of talent that provides more than 30 hours of country and bluegrass music. Other acts include The Nashville Bluegrass Band, whose members were an integral part of the movie soundtracks "O Brother Where Art Thou?" and "Cold Mountain," performing Friday and Saturday; Rhonda Vincent, five time Female Vocalist of the Year recipient by the International Bluegrass Music Association (IBMA), on Saturday; and Blue Highway, whose various members won Grammys while with Alison Krauss and Union Station, performing on Sunday.

Named "2001 Bluegrass Event of the Year" by IBMA, the Jubilee not only features top name entertainment on main stage, but it also hosts guitar, banjo, band and vocal harmony workshops in a more intimate setting. Musical jam sessions or "pickin'" parties also run nearly all night long in special campgrounds on the park.

Mojave Narrows Regional Park in Victorville, where the Jubilee is held, sits on a 500-acre oasis in the high desert resembling parkland similar to that which is found along the Mississippi River. It offers large meadows for camping and two lakes for fishing. ■

Meet Mother Nature

'Idyllwild Park' brings you the great outdoors

Learning about science and nature is never so easy for kids as when they can get a little dirty in the process. At the Idyllwild Park Nature Center, youth and adults can take an opportunity to get up close and personal with nature.

Explorations begin at the Center's museum, where you will find exhibits on natural and cultural history of the San Jacinto Mountains. The nature shop sells books and guides, as well as other gifts. Volunteers are also available to answer questions.

However, it's when you get outside where the real fun begins. Idyllwild Park hosts five miles of hiking trails, ranging from easy to moderate. The Yellow Pine Forest Nature Trail is a half-mile, self-guided path through the pine forest to Lily Creek.

Naturalist Guided walks are available in the summer months so be sure to check the program schedule. The Viewpoint/Campground trail takes you up sweeping views of Tahquitz Peak, Lily Rock and Marion Mountain, then connects with the Loop Trail for a more strenuous hike.

During the summer months on Saturdays, kids can take a break from hiking to assemble crafts. Projects include creating plaster animal tracks, making owl puppets and bat mobiles, and more.

The Center offers a kid-friendly approach to learning about nature. Sniff a Jeffrey pine tree and discover where maple syrup comes from. Search for woodpecker homes or just search for wildflowers and animal tracks.

During the summer a continuing schedule of natural and cultural history programs is offered. Naturalist led walks, natural history lectures, campfire programs and Crafts for Kids are also offered on summer Saturdays. ■

Art of Laguna

39th Annual Sawdust Art Festival begins July 1

The Sawdust Art Festival in Laguna Beach will open its 39th season on July 1, and run through September 4. This must-see event hosts 200 Laguna Beach artists each summer. Live entertainment, featuring everything from jazz quartets to acrobats to surf bands, as well as three cafes and a saloon, make the Sawdust Art Festival a true festival of all arts.

Located in picturesque Laguna Canyon in the midst of a three-acre eucalyptus grove, the Sawdust Art Festival treats visitors to a relaxing setting. Majestic 100-year old trees shade and cool the grounds while two waterfalls add to the tranquil atmosphere.

Voted one of the top three art festivals in the nation by the readers of American Style Magazine, the Sawdust Art Festival attracts visitors from around the globe, including many celebrities.

Thirty-year exhibitor Ken Denton remembers Barbra Streisand, Jonathan Winters, and the late Frank Zappa coming by and purchasing art from him.

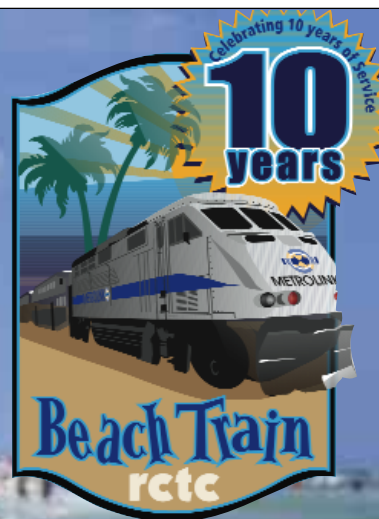

Denton reminisces, "In the early 70s Frank Zappa and his friends would often stop over at any time of the night to peruse my creations. Zappa wrote 'Kenny's Little Creatures on Display' in homage."

All exhibitors at the Sawdust Art Festival must live in Laguna Beach and create their own original art. The non-profit Sawdust organization's mission is two-fold: to educate the public about the art created in Laguna beach and to exist as a venue at which Laguna Beach artists can show their work to the public.

Founded in 1966 as a reaction against stuffy, judged art

Action hero weekend

Convention puts military action figures with live counterparts

The annual A Weekend of Heroes Action Figure Convention/Military and Law Enforcement Recruitment display is entering its 4th year over the weekend of June 24-26, at the Ontario Convention Center.

A Weekend of Heroes began as a fun-filled venue for military action figure collectors to meet the real heroes of yesteryears. Over the past three years, the convention has grown from its modest hotel ballroom size show to the currently 46,000 sqft facility. Today's AWH is no longer merely a waterhole for military action figure collectors but a gathering place for youngsters to learn about military history and meet the men and women who served our nation from World War II to Vietnam to current conflicts.

AWH 2005 will feature two modern heroes from Operation Anaconda, Afghanistan in 2002, and a WWII German paratrooper whose lifelong dream was to shake the hands of a 101st ABN paratrooper who jumped and fought in Normandy. According to the German paratrooper, 101st ABN soldiers were the best he'd ever fought against. There will be action figures made of all honorees.

AWH 2005 will add a Friday afternoon combat re-enactment in honor of Capt. Self, late PJ Cunningham, and those who lost their lives during the battle of Taku Ghar. A twinpack action figure set will be created in the honor of both heroes.

The Saturday night battle is AWH's trademark tribute to WWII veterans. The 2005 battle, Defense of Berlin, will feature a former German paratrooper who fought from Normandy to Berlin, including the fierce battle at Seelow Height, the final stand with the Russian Red Army before Berlin fell. Sgt. Gunther Meyer's story tells the fighting spirit of a young paratrooper.

Come meet a real "Band of Brothers" medic PVC Ed Pepping, Medic of 101st

ABN of the 506th

Speakers this year will include US Army Special Forces (ret.) Col. Paul Longgear, US Army Ranger Capt. Nathan Self, US Army Ranger (ret) Col. Danny McKnight of Black Hawk Down fame, veterans from the 442nd Combat Team (WWII), renown military artist/publisher Mr. Uwe Feist, and Sunday features an action figure manufacturer's panel.

All seminars are free to the public. All military personnel and family members with proper ID are admitted free to the convention hall on Fri. from 6-9pm (Fri. is not a public day otherwise), Sat. 10am-5pm, and Sun. 10am-3pm. Public hours are Sat. 10am-5pm, and Sunday 10am-3pm. General admission for the public is $7, children ages 11 and under admitted free. Children and teens ages 17 and under admitted free all day Sunday.

The Legacy of Lewis

In an age rife with ethical scandals and widely differing views on just what can be relied upon as true, not to mention beautiful, more than 600 Americans will soon be "crossing the pond" to England to attend Oxbridge 2005, the sixth triennial C.S. Lewis Summer Institute to be held in Oxford and Cambridge from July 24 through August 6.

Organized by the C.S. Lewis Foundation of Oxford, England and Redlands, California, this year's two-week conference, entitled "Making All Things New: The Good, the True and the Beautiful in the 21st Century," marks the sixth such international conference to be held since its inception in 1988. Set in the medieval university cities of Oxford and Cambridge, Oxbridge 2005 will feature presentations by leading scholars and artists, representing many Christian traditions and interests from around the world including those of the arts, humanities, sciences and social sciences, and interlaced with music, dance, theater and worship.

"This is a particularly timely theme in which we consider the current social and intellectual trends of the Third Millennium," Stan Mattson, Ph.D., founder and president of the C.S. Lewis Foundation, said. "In one of his lesser known books, The Abolition of Man, Lewis warned that our culture was in imminent danger of abandoning the essential foundation of its core values, without which it could not long endure. The social and intellectual trends that followed Lewis' insightful and prophetic warning offer genuine cause for deep concern and serious reflection."

"Yet Lewis was far from a pessimist about the future," Mattson said, "and it will be in the spirit of Lewis' constructive critique that we will explore the possibilities of 'making all things new' across a wide spectrum of human experience in these our troubled times."

Attendees may attend one or both weeks, with an average of 80 percent of past attendees electing to attend both weeks, which is a prerequisite for auditioning to participate in the Choral Institute, directed by Dr. John Dickson of Texas Tech University.

For more information or to register for Oxbridge 2005, visit the Foundation's website at www.cslewis.org, or call toll free 1-808-CSLEWIS.

Scenic Sky Chair gives summer recreation a lift

Now that the snow is gone, it's time for summer fun at Snow Summit Mountain Resort in Big Bear. In May Snow Summit converted its East Mountain Express chairlift into the Scenic Sky Chair.

"A ride up or down on the Scenic Sky Chair offers breathtaking views of brim-full Big Bear Lake and the surrounding San Bernardino National Forest," Big Bear Mountain Resorts Marketing Director Chris Riddle said. "The Sky Chair is especially popular for cross-country mountain biking and hiking, providing access to some amazing world class trails."

During the summer, the chairlift speed is reduced to allow plenty of time to take in the natural beauty of Big Bear Valley and the surrounding San Bernardino National Forest. The Sky Chair ride takes about 15 minutes to transport cross-country mountain bikers, hikers and sightseers from the base elevation of 7,000 feet to the summit elevation at 8,200 feet.

At the top of the mountain, guests find the View Haus, home to Big Bear's most scenic eatery to enjoy a full lunch, a snack or a cold beverage while taking in the spectacular views of San Geronimo, Southern California's highest mountain peak. Sightseers complete the adventure with the relaxing ride down to the base area.

For hikers and cross-country cyclists, the descent is extraordinary: wildflowers, spectacular views and, according to their preferences, challenging or easy trails.

The Scenic Sky Chair helps mountain bikers and hikers because it does most of the uphill climbing. Also, it leads them to Skyline Ridge (2N10), one of the most scenic trails in Big Bear Valley. The two favorite loops on the 2N10 ridge are Grand View Loop and Plantation Trail, both rated intermediate. Grand View's riding time is approximately 2 hours, and Plantation Trail is 3 hours.

Snow Summit no longer transports downhill-specific mountain bikes on the Scenic Sky Chair during the summer months for either recreational or competitive purposes. The resort continues to haul conventional (cross-country) mountain bikes for the general public on the Sky Chair with access to off-site Forest Service trails and roads. Bikes must weigh less than 35 lbs., the tire size designation must be less than 2.5 lbs., front shocks must have less than 6 inches of travel and bikes must have three chain rings unless they are single speed.

Snow Summit will continue to host a number of cross-country mountain bike races and events throughout the summer, including the Snow Summit Amateur Cup Series, Women's Only Weekend, and 12-Hours at the Summit. For more information about mountain biking events, visit www.team-bigbear.com or call 909-866-4565.

The Scenic Sky Chair remains open until the winter season begins. The Sky Chair is open weekends only until June 18, after which it is open daily. After Labor Day, September 5, the Sky Chair returns to a "weekends only" status.

Scenic Sky Chair ticket prices for a one-way trip with bike are $10 adults (ages 13 and up) and $5 children (ages 7-12). A one-way trip without bike are $7 adults and $4 children. Roundtrips without bikes are $10 adults and $5 children.

For more information about Snow Summit's Scenic Sky Chair or Big Bear Lake, or to book reservations online, including the Scenic Sky Chair and lodging packages, log onto www.bigbear.com or call 1.800.4.BIG.BEAR (1.800.424.4232). ■

There are also a number of smaller stages throughout the grounds.

The Irish step dancing competition is expected to draw over 1000 beautifully costumed Irish dancers from throughout western America competing for championship titles. The Fairdance program brings the popularity, elegant style and stunning talent of the world famed Riverdance and Lord of the Dance stage shows to the Irish Fair, and is presented by highly accomplished Irish Step Dance Teachers from around the globe. Fairdance will feature a separate Grand Ceili Stage featuring world famous Celtic dancing, Irish Ceili dancing, Scottish Country dancing and American Clog dancing.

Adult admission is $14 advance, $16 at the gate. An adult 2-day ticket is $22 advance, $28 at the gate. Seniors and students are $10 advance, $12 at the gate. Children 12 years and under are free when accompanied by an adult.

My name is Gloria Chong. I was diagnosed with a brain tumor at age 38 and had surgery September 1997 to remove it. It grew back five years later, even more aggressive, requiring another surgery that could not remove the tumor completely.

This time I was told it was a terminal condition with a life expectancy of 18 to 30 months. I told the doctors that day that my faith lets me know that it is in God's hands. I received chemo therapy and radiation treatments with steroids. This made me gain weight and swell up. I was also physically inactive and in a wheelchair.

I would see myself in recent pictures looking overweight. My friend Patsy Padilao encouraged me to join Curves, so I went July of 2004 as a guest since I did not want to sit around feeling sorry for myself.

I live each day to its fullest. I know that part of God's plan for me is to reach out to others by making contact with as many people as I can. I met the Curves owner, Michelle Green, who was very nice and encouraging to me. I was still able to join even though I was on my walker at that time.

Now I am on a cane and feel a lot better about myself since I have more energy. I have lost weight and get many compliments on it from my husband and friends. I enjoy the new friends I have made there. My mom has joined and I encourage other ladies to join the Curves family.

Making Time

Too busy to work out? Not if you follow a few simple tips

By Jennifer Pigeon, MPH

One of the top reasons people give for not working out is, "I don't have the time!" Of course, we all have the same number of hours in the day. The difference between those who find the time and those who don't is time management. These ten timely tips may help you out:

1. Keep a journal of how you spend your time for a few days. Are you watching too much TV? Are you spending time with the people you say are important to you?

2. Figure out your priorities and how you want to live your life. Does the way you spend your time match your priorities? List three specific ways to accomplish each of your priorities and start working on them now.

3. Do one task completely before you move on to the next one. Besides keeping you on track, this method can reduce your stress level.

4. Learn how to say no or at least set some boundaries, especially if the obligation doesn't match your priorities.

5. Do it now - don't procrastinate. Sort the mail as soon as you get it, work on that big project now, etc. If you wait too long, what started as an easy project soon seems insurmountable.

6. Get organized. Suggestion: accomplish one small task each week such as mending your clothes, cleaning out a closet, or organizing your current pictures. Great resources include: flylady.net, clutterbug.org, and Organizing From the Inside Out by Julie Morgenstern.

7. Work on something you want to spend your time on a little bit each day. For example, if you want to learn how to play piano, practice a half hour a day. How about writing a book? Committing yourself to a page a day turns into a 365 page best-seller (think positively!) by the end of the year.

8. Go to bed earlier and enjoy some peaceful time in the morning to yourself. You can use some of that time to plan out your day and approach the day calmly.

9. Strive for physical, mental and spiritual balance every day. Practicing this concept also makes you more resilient when unexpected, potentially stressful events happen in your life.

10. Plan ahead. Some ideas include ironing for the week on Sunday, planning out simple meals for at least three days, setting out your exercise clothes and making your lunch the night before work

Have arcade, will travel

What kid hasn't fantasized, while playing games in an arcade, about having his own arcade at home? A pair of enterprising game and computer fans took this idea and built a business around it, bringing the arcade to you.

Mobile Arcade is the brainchild of two video game junkies. One of those junkies is also extremely handy with tools and the other is a computer genius. Using computer parts and carpentry skills, they built their own arcade games. Even though the games are all on computer, they are the same games found in a standard arcade.

The mobile idea came from their garage being full of computers and all the neighborhood kids coming over to play. They thought, wouldn't it be great to take this to other people's houses. The games are built around personal computers, xbox and playstation consoles. Mobile Arcade also produces a dance machine.

The arcade is available for any kind of party, in-doors or out. They bring their own generator for outdoor events.

Games are rented in four-hour increments. They can also video record the party and prepare it on a DVD as a memento.

Theatre lives on through the passion of its 'players'

By Kathryn L. Gage

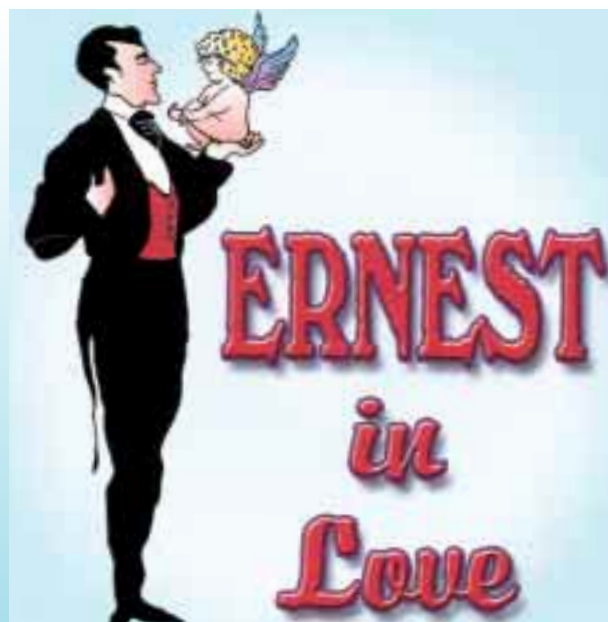

In 1925, Janet Scott and 26 of her friends elected officers and became charter members of the organization that has come to be known as Riverside Community Players. Currently in its 80th consecutive season, Riverside Community Players is one of the oldest continuously operating community theatres in the United States.

While some older theatres had to close their doors during hard times, Riverside Community Players continued to produce plays each season even during depressions and wars. During World War II, RCP members would go out to March Field and recruit soldiers to perform in the plays and even provide them with transportation to and from the theatre for rehearsals and performances. The saying "the show must go on" was taken very seriously by those dedicated members of Riverside Community Players.

The recently renovated arena.

"Ernest in Love" is a beguiling musical version of "The Importance of Being Ernest," Oscar Wilde's sparkling play about social hypocrisy among the creme de la creme of Victorian England. A faithful adaptation of his comic masterpiece, this musical provides a clever, tuneful score that is a perfect complement to Wilde's incomparable wordplay and immortal witticisms in a delightful interpretation of what has been called "the funniest play in the English language."

Without a permanent home, productions were done on various stages around Riverside - at the Riverside Women's Club, the Loring Building, Central Junior High School and Washington School at 12th and Almond.

In 1929 the Washington School was leased to Riverside Community Players and fundraising efforts got underway for its conversion into a theatre. For about 24 years the building at 12th and Almond was home, but then the school district needed a place for a new administration building and a new home needed to be found. It was then that the lease arrangements were made for the land on Fourteenth Street between Magnolia and Brockton Avenues.

Fundraising efforts began again, and in September of 1953 the newly built theatre at 4026 Fourteenth Street opened its doors. A true labor of love, much of the interior of the facility was quite literally built by many of the members themselves, with donations in kind from friends and businesses in the community.

The cost of the original building was $17,500. Later additions provided dressing rooms, the green room and a work/storage area called the Lewis Room in honor of the then Mayor of Riverside who was a very active member, and president, of Riverside Community Players.

The theatre building belonged to Riverside Community Players, but the land itself was leased from the City at the cost of one dollar per year. The lease was intended to be renewed in perpetuity and the agreement was made on a handshake. However, over the years, and after an assortment of land swaps, the land came to be owned by Riverside Community Hospital and in 1989, Riverside Community Players was notified that when the lease was up in 1993, it would not be renewed.

Riverside Community Players then did what it had never done before and hired its first full-time paid employee. The ensuing years were filled by a lot of hard work, a few false starts and a lot of anxiety. A substantial amount of money was raised, but not nearly enough to purchase and renovate a building or purchase a large enough piece of land and build a new theatre. Finally, a few dedicated and determined people came to the rescue and Riverside Community Hospital was persuaded to sell the land on which the theatre sat to Riverside Community Players.

In October of 1995, 70 years after the organization was created, Riverside Community Players had a permanent home. Who says perseverance doesn't pay!

Having been able to pay cash for the property due to the generosity of its many patrons and members, Riverside Community Players remains debt free and continues to provide quality theatre to the community every season.

Redlands Theater Festival to open 33rd season

The Redlands Theatre Festival is in full swing and gearing up for its 33rd season. This year's season opens July 8 and includes the musical Godspell, Shakespeare's As You Like It, the musical mystery Something's Afoot, and two contemporary pieces Everything I Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten and Anton in Show Business.

Godspell is a musical about the life of Jesus Christ based on the gospel of Matthew in the Bible. RTF will bring the musical into the twenty-first century by working into it the contemporary religious and political issues that are affecting our country today.

RTF's version of Shakespeare's As You Like It will also be set in modern times and some of the language has been updated to make it more accessible to a broader audience. As You Like It is a classic Shakespearean romantic comedy which includes gossip, intrigue, lover's quarrels, and a wrestling match.

Something's Afoot is a musical mystery comedy loosely based on the play Ten Little Indians taken from the Agatha Christie novel. Eccentric characters are all brought to an island estate where they are murdered one at a time. Between murders characters break into hilarious song and dance numbers to try to figure out who the killer is.

Everything I Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten is a play based on the best-selling book by Robert Fulghum. The play follows the lives of five characters from kindergarten to adulthood and proves that we truly do learn everything we need to know to survive in life in kindergarten.

Anton in Show Business is a play within a play. This comedy features an all woman cast attempting to put on a production of Three Sisters by Anton Chekhov with hilarious results. The audience will get to see all of the behind the scenes mischief and mayhem that goes on as the cast tries to put on a "serious drama" by Chekhov.

This year's season runs from July 8 – August 20, 2005. Tickets are $15 each. If you would like more information about Redlands Theatre Festival please call 909-806-0406. Redlands Theater Festival is located in Redlands at Prospect Park. R

'A Funny Thing Happened' in Riverside

Performance Riverside, the professional theatre associated with Riverside Community College, brings Stephen Sondheim's award-winning musical comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," to the Landis Performing Arts Center this month.

A major hit on Broadway and with national touring productions, one of Broadway's greatest farces is witty, irreverent, fast-paced, and one of the funniest musicals ever written.

Under director Gary Krinke's creative touch, Performance Riverside's "Forum" promises to be a laugh-fest suitable for the entire family.

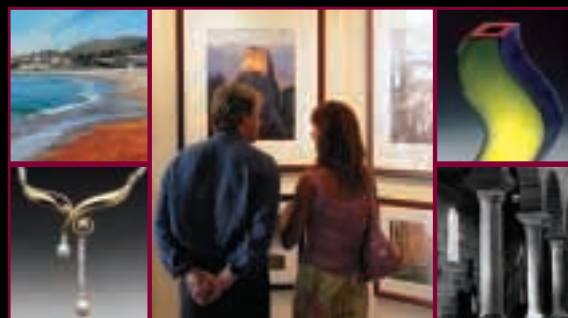

Veteran actor John Massey Jr. handles the pivotal comedic roll of Pseudolus, a crafty slave who engineers his young master's (Hero, David Beaver) courtship of the beautiful courtesan Philia (Kelli M. Casas).

Casas, a talented performer, should be familiar to Performance Riverside audiences, having appeared in Phantom, The Wizard of Oz, and Oliver at the Landis Performing Arts Center, as well as on the big and small screen in The Shaggy Dog, Charmed, Las Vegas, and The O.C.

"A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" takes comedy back to its roots, combining situations from time-tested, 2000-year-old comedies of Roman playwright Plautus with the infectious energy of classic vaudeville. With its unforgettable zany characters, a hysterical, perfectly constructed book by Larry Gelbart (of "MASH" and "City Of Angels" fame) and Burt Shevelove, and witty Stephen Sondheim songs, "Forum" allows a Performance Riverside's ensemble of comedic actors to shine. R

"Honk," is the story of the fabled underdog of one of the most beloved fairy tales of all time, the ugly duckling, whose odd gawky looks instantly incite prejudice from his family and neighbors. Separated from the farm and pursued by a hungry cat, Ugly must find his way home with only his loving mother Ida searching for him. Along his harrowing journey he not only discovers his true beauty and glorious destiny, but also finds love and acceptance in all its forms.

"Your children will delight in seeing these sixty-one young performers bring to life a contemporary twist to this ageless classic. This is a very contemporary version they'll relate to and love. We agree with Producer Ben Bollinger when he says 'the children of today are the performers and patrons of tomorrow,'" Director and Centre Stage President Keely Millikin said.

No dinner will be served during this special engagement. Appetizers and dessert will be served for an additional fee.

WHEN: June 30-July 3

WHERE: Ben Bollinger's Candlelight Pavilion Dinner Theatre, 555 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont
